

Prof. Giuseppe Guarini

Home Page

GIUSEPPE GUARINI

Graduated in Medicine at Rome University "La Sapienza" in April 1950, has 50 years of experience at Italian Universities: from student to Professor.

- Medical Clinic Assistant in 1950
- Professor of Semeiotic Medicine in 1958 (Lecturer at the University of Palermo)
- Professor of Medical Pathology in 1959 (Lecturer at the University of Palermo)
- Professor of Medical Clinic in 1961 (Lecturer at the University of Rome "La Sapienza")
- Professor of Geriatrics in 1973 at the University of Ancona
- Professor of Medical Semeiotic at the University of Rome "La Sapienza" from 1973 to 1986.
- Professor of Internal Medicine at the University of Rome "La Sapienza" from 1986 to 1997.
- Life honorary fellow of the American Student's Association.
- Author of more than 300 experimental and clinical issues on lipid metabolism, cardiology and kidney diseases.
- Author of 25 issues and 5 books in medical didactic (internal medicine, lipid metabolism, kidney diseases, physiology and pathology of feedback systems and cardiac arrhythmias)
- Head Editor of "Teodori 2000" (The Italian book of Internal Medicine) and has published 5 books of Multiple Choice Questions (texts for students and for General Medicine Specialists).
- Chairman of reports of Internal Medicine and of Cardiology in National and International congresses.

- Actually Accademic member of Accademia Medica and Accademia Lancisiana of Rome

Pubblicazioni Scientifiche e Didattiche

Pubblicazioni Argomenti Vari